

CANCER

Sufferers from this horrible malady nearly always inherit it—not necessarily from the parents, but may be from some remote ancestor, for cancer often runs through several generations. This deadly poison may lay dormant in the blood for years, or until you reach middle life, then the first little sore or ulcer makes its appearance—or a swollen gland in the breast, or some other part of the body, gives the first warning.

To cure Cancer thoroughly and permanently all the poisonous virus must be eliminated from the blood—every vestige of it driven out. This S. S. S. does, and is the only medicine that can reach deep-seated, obstinate blood troubles like this. When all the poison has been forced out of the system the cancer heals, and the disease never returns.

Cancer begins often in a small way, as the following letter from Mrs. Shirer shows:

A small pimple came on my jaw about an inch below the ear on the left side of my face. It gave me no pain or inconvenience, and I should have forgotten about it had it not begun to enlarge and itch; it would bleed a little, then scab over, but would not heal. This continued for some time, and when my jaw began to swell, becoming very painful. The cancer began to eat and spread, until it was as large as a half dollar, when I heard of S. S. S. and determined to give it a fair trial, and it was remarkable how a wonderful effect it had from the very beginning; the sore began to heal and after taking a few bottles disappeared entirely. This was two years ago; there are still no signs of the cancer, and my general health continues good.—Mrs. M. Shirer, La Plata, Mo. is the greatest of all blood purifiers, and the only one guaranteed purely vegetable. Send for our free book on Cancer, containing valuable and interesting information about this disease, and write our physician about your case. We make no charge for medical advice.

FREIGHT BUSINESS

SHOWS AN IMPROVEMENT OVER
LAST YEAR.

1,517 CAR LOADS IN OCTOBER

A GAIN OF 551 OVER OCTOBER A
YEAR AGO.

A SEMI-ANNUAL INSPECTION

GRAND RAPIDS ROAD GETS AN OFFICIAL LOOKING OVER.

According to the report of H. M. Elliott, local representative of the Indiana Car Service association, October was a busy month with the shippers, merchants and manufacturers of Fort Wayne. His report shows that during the month there were handled here 1,517 full car loads of freight. September showed a little better business, there being 1,540 car loads handled, twenty-three more than in October. During the month of October, 1899, there were only 986 car loads of freight handled in the city, 531 car loads less than were handled during the month 1900. The percentage of demurrage continues to decrease in a satisfactory manner, which is evidence that Mr. Elliott is doing a good work for the railways and owners of cars.

SEMI-ANNUAL INSPECTION.

A party of Grand Rapids and Indiana officials are out on the southern end of the line today, making the semi-annual inspection of buildings and bridges. They travel upon the little steam inspection car which has been employed for that purpose for a number of years. In the party are E. H. Barnes, resident engineer; A. C. Phillips, master car builder, and A. H. Simpson, maintenance of way clerk.

HAD A FINGER BROKEN.

Charles Sibert this morning resumed a position in the Pittsburgh boiler shop from which he retired two weeks ago to take a position elsewhere.

J. T. Harahan, vice president and general manager of the Illinois Central, yesterday completed his tenth year in that position.

Yard Conductor George Horton, who had the misfortune to lose his child by death, has reported for work on the Pittsburgh road.

Westbound Pennsylvania passenger train No. 21 was late in reaching this city this morning, the delay being due to trouble east of Pittsburgh.

Edward W. Hess, of the Pittsburgh store room, had the misfortune to sprain one of his ankles yesterday and will be unable to work for a few days.

The Fort Wayne Electric company this morning shipped a car load of machinery and apparatus to Bloomington, Ind., where a plant is to be installed.

Engineer William Doty reported for work on the Pittsburgh this morning. For three or four weeks he was engaged in putting his farm in shape for winter.

Engineers Joseph Bracht, P. W. Donahue, George Quider, F. P. Sleeper and C. H. VanGorder and Fireman H. D. Rose, of the Nickel Plate, are taking a brief rest.

Conductors L. C. Miller and A. P. Smith, of the Pittsburgh, are off duty, the latter on account of sickness. Brakeman H. C. Schwehn, of the same road, is taking a vacation.

Master Mechanic G. S. McKee, of the Wabash, has recovered from an attack of chills and fever and is again in his office, though feeling a trifle weak, the result of the sickness.

Brakeman John Miller and James Hamilton, who were sick, and Brakeman Joseph Hamilton and C. E. Myton, who had been attending to private affairs, reported for work on the Nickel Plate yesterday.

It is stated the Southern Indiana road will construct a seven-mile branch from Jasonville, Ind., to Jackson Hill, on the Evansville and Terre Haute. By this branch they will touch the richest coal fields in the state.

Detective Wilkinson, of the Nickel Plate, gave testimony before the Cook county grand jury at Chicago this week in the case of two men arrested for stealing brass from the Nickel Plate shops at Stony Island.

The freight movement of the middle division of the Pennsylvania road between Altoona and Harrisburg was on Friday last the largest of any day in the road's history, 8,900 cars being handled in the twenty-four hours. It is stated that the October business of the road will exceed any movement in the company's history. Yesterday Conductor George Marsh, of the Nickel Plate, had the misfortune to sprain one of his ankles. In consequence of the accident he is now off duty. Brakeman C. Bittner, also of the Nickel Plate, is taking a leave of absence for personal reasons.

There is said to be unimpeachable evidence that some of the east-and-west lines are again paying commissions on sales of tickets. The matter is being handled judiciously. It is thought by some that such a violation of the agreement will lead to breaking it down.

A. Gazlay has been appointed commercial agent of the Grand Trunk at Cincinnati. Detroit, Mich., Nov. 2.—John G. Woolley, prohibition candidate for president, and party entered Michigan today for their second campaign tour of the state. Mr. Woolley opened the day's campaigning with a speech at 8 o'clock from the rear platform of his car. A small audience heard him urge "that it is the duty of all enlightened electors to vote the prohibition ticket."

TO CLOSE THE CAMPAIGN.

The closing republican address of the campaign in this city will be delivered at Library hall Saturday evening by Col. Samuel H. Church, assistant secretary of the Pennsylvania company. The Railroad Men's club will escort the speaker, and it is expected that Supt. J. B. McKim will preside.

PATERSON FIENDS INDICTED.

New York, Nov. 2.—It was said last night in Paterson, N. J., that the grand jury, acting upon the line laid down by their guidance by Judge Nixon, found a true bill of indictment for rape and homicide against Walter McAllister, Alex Campbell, William Death and George Kerr in connection with the death of Jennie Boschieter, which occurred two weeks ago. Practically the whole day's session of the grand jury was taken up by the case. The jury did not complete its work until after the court had risen, so there was no report of the finding of the jury to Judge Nixon.

ESTABLISHED 1833.

FORT WAYNE, IND., FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1900.

PRICE TWO CENTS

SHE IS AN ISSUE

EMPERESS DOWAGER CONCERNS THE POWERS.

SHE MUST BE DISPOSED OF

HER INFLUENCE DANGEROUS TO PEACE.

OTHER MATTERS TO SETTLE

TSUN LI YAMEN MAY HAVE TO BE ABOLISHED.

Washington, Nov. 2.—It was stated today in quarters well versed in Chinese affairs that outside of the questions of indemnity, punishments, etc., now under negotiation at Peking, there are three vital and far-reaching questions to be determined, viz., first, the removal of the empress dowager, personally and through the influence of her advisors, from all participation in the Chinese government; second, the creation of an indemnity fund by the increase of China's customs revenue, either by the payment of the duties in gold, instead of depreciated silver, as at present, or else by doubling the present silver duties from 5 per cent. to 10 per cent. ad valorem; and, third, the establishment of a minister of foreign affairs in place of the old and cumbersome system of the tsung li yamen.

The demand for the retirement of the empress dowager is said to result from the conclusion now generally accepted that the imperial government of China was responsible for the boxer uprising. As the empress dowager was the ruling authority of the imperial government during the uprising, this responsibility is brought home directly to her. There is understood to be no purpose, however, to visit upon her any personal punishment or indignity, but merely to so form the reconstructed government as to exclude her from all participation in it. It is deemed advisable for that reason that she should remain permanently away from the seat of government.

The plan of doubling China's customs duties has arisen from the need of finding a source to pay war indemnities, which the various powers demand. It appears, however, that the increase of the duties has heretofore been brought to the attention of the United States government by Li Hung Chang.

This occurred during his visit to Washington a few years ago, when it was represented that the 5 per cent. duty in silver actually netted only about 2½ per cent., judged by the prevailing gold standard. The matter was not pressed at the time.

China's present customs revenues are said to be already pledged to meet the interest and principal of Chinese loans, so that it will require some entirely new source to meet the indemnities. In case the enlarged duties are determined upon, it is understood that their collection will be placed under the supervision of representatives of the powers, at least until the indemnities are paid.

The plan of substituting a minister of foreign affairs in place of the tsung li yamen has long been in contemplation, as foreign representatives have found it very difficult to deal with this mixed body and to locate responsibility upon it, particularly during the boxer troubles.

BOXERS SENTENCED TO DIE.

Pao-Ting-Fu, Friday, Oct. 26.—The commission of inquiry into the outrages on missionaries here has sentenced to death Tien-Yang, the provincial judge; Wang-Shung-On, the military commandant; General Kiu and two other officials. German and French troops will garrison at Pao-Ting-Fu for the winter. The preparations are complete for destroying, October 27, the most venerated temple in the city.

MINISTERS DISCUSS PLANS.

Paris, Nov. 2.—A dispatch to the Havas agency from Peking, dated Oct. 31, says:

"The foreign ministers continued today the discussion of the peace propositions to be presented to the Chinese. The French proposals were accepted. Additional specifications will be discussed Monday. On account of the necessity for thorough accord between the different cabinets the final note will not be presented for several weeks.

"General Voyron (commander-in-chief of the French troops in China), with the allies under his command, is purging the villages around Tien-Tsin and Peking. Many villages infested with boxers have been destroyed and their inhabitants punished.

"A French column sent to Tuen rescued the missionaries there. Another French column met with resistance at Siet-Chung. The enemy's losses were considerable. The village was burned.

"News received from Pao-Ting-Fu indicates a movement of French and German troops upon Si-Ling, where the imperial tombs are situated. It is rumored that the army of Yang-Yuh-Kanle has resolved to defend the place.

"As the result of inquiries made by the international commission under General Bailford (second in command of the French troops in China) the allies are convinced that the grand treasurer and the governor of Pao-Ting-Fu and a Chinese colonel were instrumental in the murder of American and English missionaries, and they have been condemned to death and will be executed soon."

GIRL IS SCARED TO DEATH.

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 2.—The authorities of Allegany county are looking for persons who manufactured a skeleton out of bones of domestic animals, which frightened Mary Oldfield, of Kirtland, to death. Miss Oldfield, accompanied by two friends, was returning from a Halloween party, where they had listened to ghoulish stories until their hair stood on end. When about to enter the woods a rattling of bones was heard overhead and looking up the trio were overcome with horror to see a skeleton of gigantic proportions sweeping down on them from above. With a cry of terror Mary dropped dead in her tracks. A searching party found a wire leading from the ground to a tree top to which the skeleton was attached by a pulley.

MINISTERS RESIGN.

Christiania, Norway, Nov. 2.—It is announced that Counsellors of State Lochon, Holst and Thilosen have handed in their resignations to Prince Regent Gustavus. The ministry of finance has been offered to Burgomaster Arentsen, who declined the honor. Counsellor Konow becomes minister of agriculture.

W. L. STRONG DEAD

HE WAS THE REFORM MAYOR OF NEW YORK.

DEATH CAME UNEXPECTEDLY

WHILE VERY SICK FEW KNEW OF HIS CONDITION.

DEFEATED TAMMANY IN 1895

MADE A DEEP IMPRESSION AS MAYOR OF NEW YORK.

New York, Nov. 2.—William L. Strong, the last mayor of the old city of New York, died suddenly at 3 o'clock this morning at his residence in this city.

The illness of Mr. Strong had been kept from his political friends. It was known among his business associates in the wholesale dry goods district, but no one suspected that his condition was alarming. Mr. Strong had not been at his place of business for several days.

Mr. Strong took an active part in the present campaign and it is said that his political labors, combined with his attempts to retain supervision over his business affairs, in the face of impaired health, brought about the illness that resulted in his death.

Mr. Strong had been in poor health for about six weeks. He ate supper as usual last night and did not complain of any pain or weakness at that time. About 11 o'clock he retired to his bed room, assisted by two nurses, who had been in attendance from the beginning of his illness. About an hour after he had gone to bed, he awoke and told one of the nurses that he was very weak. He asked to have his wife and son, Major Putnam Bradley Strong, called.

They soon came to the room. When Mr. Strong saw his wife he put his arm about her and said:

"I am very, very weak." Colonel Strong grew a little better, and as his condition at that time did not seem alarming the physician was not sent for. His daughter, Mrs. Shattuck, and her husband, were called, however.

A little before 3 o'clock Mr. Strong seemed to have a change for the worse and his physician was hastily summoned, but he did not arrive until after the patient's death.

William L. Strong was born in Ohio in 1827 and came to New York when a young man. He found employment with different firms until January 1, 1870, when he organized the firm of William L. Strong & Co. The firm soon grew to be one of the prominent houses in the city. He also interested himself in banking matters and was president of the Central National bank.

Mr. Strong took an active interest in politics and was one of the leaders of the reform movement in this city and was elected mayor on the republican-citizens' union ticket in 1894. He was the last mayor of the old city of New York before consolidation with Brooklyn and the other boroughs composing the present city of New York.

At the time of his death Mr. Strong was a member of a number of societies, including the Ohio society, American Fine Arts society, American Museum of Natural History, Metropolitan Museum association and American Geographical society.

At a mass meeting in Madison Square Garden in 1894 a non-partisan committee of seventy was appointed to organize the opposition to Tammany Hall, to frame a platform and select candidates for office, and it was this committee that selected Mr. Strong to run for mayor on the reform platform.

The nomination was accepted and the candidate entered into the campaign with vigor and determination. His opponent was Hugh J. Grant and the contest was a bitter one. The outcome was the election of Mr. Strong by a plurality of 47,187.

The administration of Mr. Strong was an eventful one. It was he who appointed Colonel Waring commissioner of street cleaning and in spite of periods of strong opposition within and without the party kept him in office until the end of the mayoral term. The affairs of the police department Mr. Strong placed in the hands of a board, at the head of which was Theodore Roosevelt, whose earlier conferences were Col. Fred D. Grant, Major Avery D. Andrews and Mr. Parker.

The mayor was often accused of wasting money on improvements. His invariable reply was that where-ever he spent a dollar he "had a dollar's worth to show for it."

Mr. Strong was avowedly independent in his views on city politics. In the municipal campaign of 1897, which resulted in the return of Tammany to power, he took the stump for Seth Low as against Gen. Benjamin F. Tracey, the regular republican candidate.

After this election he virtually retired from active politics on account of failing health. He spoke for Colonel Roosevelt, however, in 1898 and had since been interested and influential in the councils of the independent wing of the republican party of this county.

WILL FLOW FOR PRIZES.

The annual plowing contest of the Washington and St. Joe Township Flowing club will be held tomorrow morning at the Bass east side farm, on the Wayne trace, beginning at 10 o'clock. There will be a large number of entries, and the competition promises to be very interesting. HEARD HIS FUNERAL DIRGE.

Terre Haute, Ind., Nov. 2.—H. H. Boudinot, general fire inspector for the city of Terre Haute and a most prominent citizen, who died Tuesday, was buried yesterday with unusual rites. Two years ago Mr. Boudinot engaged Prof. Breinig, of the Ringgold band, to compose for him a funeral dirge. When the composition was ready he gave a reception to the band two years ago and had the dirge played at his residence. He paid $25 for the composition and had a contract signed that the piece was not to be given until the day of his funeral. The contract was completed yesterday. The composition was a rearrangement of "The Heart Bowed Down," taken from "The Bohemian Girl."

SMOKER TO H. H. HANNA.

Hon. Hugh H. Hanna, of Indianapolis, was the guest of honor at a smoker given at the Randall hotel by Charles McCulloch, S. M. Foster and P. A. Randall. Mr. Hanna is president of the Sound Money league and the Fort Wayne gentlemen who entertained him are advocates of the gold standard. Light refreshments, coffee, sandwiches and cigars were served and then the gentlemen discussed the campaign, especially the election of congressmen. They all favored so amending the laws as to strengthen the gold standard and "removing the last weak spot in the national credit," and providing for adequate banking privileges in the remote towns from the money centers. S. M. Foster presided and prefaced Mr. Hanna's introduction by telling of the effective work the Indianapolis man had done for the gold standard. Mr. Hanna then addressed the guests and advised them to work hard for the election of R. B. Hanna to congress. Judge R. S. Taylor also spoke. Mr. Hanna left at midnight for Indianapolis.

Mr. Stevenson was unable to reach the city until 3:30 this afternoon, at which time he came in over the Lake Shore Railway from Auburn, where he delivered an address at 1:30 this afternoon. He was accompanied by Hon. John C. Welty, of Canton, Ohio, one of the democratic leaders of Ohio and who is prominently mentioned as a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination next year. Messrs. Stevenson and Welty were met at the depot by a committee of prominent democrats, who escorted them to the Wayne hotel, where both gentlemen delivered short addresses from the balcony to the assembled farmers.

THE AFTERNOON PARADE.

The parade of farmers this afternoon was the largest seen in this city since Thurman day, twelve years ago. It was 2:20 before Chief Marshal Meyer and his aides started the parade in motion and it required about twenty-five minutes to pass a given point. There were men on

DISCUSSION OF MILITARISM

EGGS THROWN AT BRYAN AT A MEETING.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—Weary from his strenuous work of last night, but still in excellent voice and asserting that he felt in good physical condition, W. J. Bryan resumed his campaign in Chicago today, making two addresses between 10:30 a. m. and 1:30 p. m. At 4 p. m. he will speak in Sixtieth street and tonight he will make six speeches in the south and southwest parts of the city. Colonel Bryan began the day's program at Handel hall, where he addressed a crowd that taxed the limits of the auditorium. From Handel hall he was driven, escorted by Mayor Harrison and a detachment of the Cook county democracy, to the lake front, where he addressed another great crowd. Splendid weather favored the speaker.

In speaking at Handel hall, under the auspices of the Single Tax society, Mr. Bryan said:

"I can understand why a single taxer should be opposed to the republican party, for the republican party asks the people to do the things which they are opposed to doing. The single tax movement has given to the United States a great man, for Henry George was a great man. A great man is one who adds to ability a desire to do what is right. I believe Henry George did what he could for humanity.

"When you get down to the hearts of people, I believe you will find that each one is doing the best that he can, but you will find that some are so busy about partisanship and some are so hampered by their environment that their work amounts to little. We cannot tell what the future may be. We can only accept what is right and advocate it and so throw our influence on the right side of every public question as we see that question. And then we should obtain all the influence possible in order that our vision may be as nearly correct as possible so that we may act with wisdom.

"We complain that the producer of wealth does not enjoy a fair share of the wealth that he produces, while the man who does not produce wealth enjoys a larger part of that wealth than he has produced.

"When you seek to correct these conditions I believe we are seeking to show a higher patriotism than those who are seeking to maintain present conditions and insisting that they must be maintained regardless of the injustice which they sanction. I am a conservative man. When I complain of injustice done I do not ask that we shall go back and undo what has been done. I simply ask that those who have sinned shall sin no more and those who have suffered shall suffer no longer. That is the conservative plea."

At the conclusion of his remarks Mr. Bryan was escorted to the lake front, near the public library, a square from Handel hall. He mounted the same stand from which he spoke yesterday and launched into a discussion of a large standing army. In the course of his somewhat lengthy speech Mr. Bryan said: "We have pointed out that the re-

United States and candidate again for the same office on the ticket with the peerless Nebraskan, William Jennings Bryan. The program for the day includes parades in the afternoon and evening, the day being given over to the farmers of Allen county and the evening to residents of Fort Wayne and all others who desire to participate. As early as 9 o'clock the officials of the democratic county central committee received word that delegations from all townships in old Allen were wending their way towards Fort Wayne. Most of the farmers and their families came horseback, on foot and on wagons, and altogether covered about ten squares of streets. The Adams township band led the Adams township delegation, which was immediately behind Chief Marshal Meyer in a buggy. A platoon of eight policemen acted as escort. Messrs. Berghoff, Melching and Harrod were on horseback and Hon. J. M. Robinson and R. C. Bell rode in a carriage. The Adams township delegation was two or three squares long and among the pretty features were two wagons loaded with women.

Thirty-six men on horseback were in the rear of twenty-five buggies filled with farmers and their families. The Lafayette township delegation came next, with nearly fifty men on foot and eight on horseback. Then came Jefferson township with five carriages and thirty-two on horseback. A drum corps led the Pleasant township delegation, then followed fifty men in wagons, twelve on horseback and one buggy. Milan township was led by the Betterton band, with seventy-six men on foot and fifty on horseback. A feature of this parade was sixteen white horses, two bays and a dun. The Wayne Tent band headed the Perry township delegation with forty-four men on in prepared to participate in the afternoon parade. They were in wagons, on horseback and in buggies. Perry township came in with twenty-four horsemen, a big wagon with twenty-five or thirty voters on it and a dozen or more buggies filled with people carrying banners. Other township delegations waited in the suburbs of the city for the order to move and form in parade.

The first prominent guest to arrive was Hon. Joseph W. Bailey, the brilliant young Texan who has been the leader on the democratic side of the lower branch of congress for several years. He arrived from Peru over the Wabash at 8:37 this morning and was met at the depot by Hon. James M. Robinson, Hon. R. C. Bell and Judge Allen Zollars. He was taken to the Wayne hotel, where, during the day, he was greeted by many Fort Wayne democrats. Mr. Bailey

VIGILANCE THE PRICE OF VICTORY

Chicago, Nov. 2.—Chairman James K. Jones, of the democratic national committee, today issued the following address to "all who favor the republic and oppose the empire":

"The election is already won. We now have only to maintain our present position. I urge that every man interested in preserving the principles of government which have come down to us from the fathers shall consecrate the entire day on Tuesday next to the great cause. Let each go to the polls early, either singly or as a member of a club, vote promptly, and then give the remainder of the day to whatever may be necessary to be done.

"Let those who can do so place teams and vehicles at the disposal of the committees to bring the old and infirm to the polls.

"See that everyone is reminded of the day and urged to vote.

"Let those whose duty it is to watch the polling and counting do so for every instant of time from the beginning to the end—from the opening of the ballot box in the morning until the returns are signed and sealed at night—and all will be well.

HEARST WILL PAY BIG REWARDS.

New York, Nov. 2.—W. R. Hearst, president of the National Association of Democratic clubs, has issued a statement to the two and one-half million members of those organizations in which he offers $1,000 reward for the arrest and conviction of persons guilty of altering election returns and $5,000 reward for the first person telegraphing him information of this character which may lead to such a conviction. In part the statement says:

"Every organization in sympathy with the democratic cause must at once pick reliable volunteers to fight fraud and intimidation at the polls. No polling place in the country should be left without intelligent and courageous citizens prepared to resist every form of political cheating, overt or covert. In every precinct the volunteers should see to it that no unqualified voter is allowed to cast a vote and that the returns tally exactly with the whole number of votes cast."

FINE ADDRESSES

W. P. BREEN AND HENRY COL-
ERICK TALK.

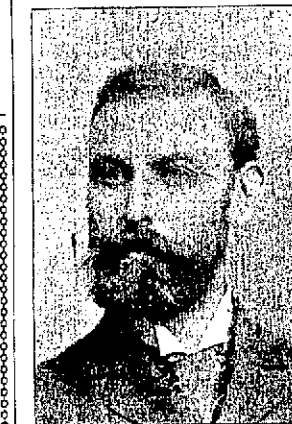

A BIG CROWD HEARD THEM

MR. BREEN ABLY DISCUSSES IM-PERIALISM.

TRUST QUESTION DISCUSSED

IN ABLE MANNER BY HENRY COLERICK.

There was a big parade in the city last night, but aside from this there was an oratorical treat which was enjoyed by a big gathering of democrats in Sengerbund hall. The orators were William P. Breen and Henry Colerick, two of the ablest attorneys and best speakers in the state of Indiana. They were announced to discuss the issues from a democratic standpoint and no able exposition of the two leading topics—imperialism and the trusts—have been heard in Fort Wayne during the present campaign. The crowd was late in assembling because of the parade on the streets, but before Mr. Breen had fairly launched into his address on imperialism the big hall was filled to overflowing. The meeting was presided over by Stephen B. Fleming, that sterling young man who has done yeoman service for Mr. Bryan and the entire democratic ticket. He congratulated the audience on the opportunity that was offered them to hear two of Indiana's most brilliant orators and the rare treat that was in store for them. The subjects which most interested this common people, he said, were to be clearly presented to the audience, appealing to their intelligence rather than to their stomachs. He said: "I shall not presume, as did the 'Prodigal Son,' on last evening, that you are here to listen to me, but will introduce to you Mr. William P. Breen, who will now address you."

HON. W. P. BREEN.

Mr. Breen began by asserting that he had seen larger crowds of democrats, but he always flattered himself that a democratic crowd makes up in quality what it lacks in quantity. He then proceeded to discuss the two proposed amendments to the Indiana constitution, asserting that they deserve and should receive the support of all voters regardless of their political affiliations. He explained that it was necessary that the supreme court should be increased rather than there should be a court of appeals, as in many cases it was found that they made decisions which conflicted with each other. The amendment providing that the legislature should fix a qualification for an attorney to practice at the bar, he believed, was a most just one. Other professions in Indiana and the law in other states had fixed a standard of qualification and he was confident that the bar, the courts and the people would be better off by demanding that a young attorney should know something of the rudimentary elements of law as well as be of moral character before he should practice.

Aside from this Mr. Breen's address was confined almost entirely to a discussion of the democratic candidates and the Philippine question. He remarked on the great strength of each individual candidate on the county ticket and believed that every man could conscientiously vote for all of them. He pleaded that every democrat should stand by Hon. James M. Robinson, who had so faithfully represented the Twelfth district in the lower branch of congress for two terms. Principles were involved in the campaign which demanded that democrats could not afford to vote against the democratic candidate. The third term argument used by some men against Mr. Robinson was no argument at all, it was rather a reason why he should be returned. No congressman had ever attained prominence unless he had been more than two terms in congress, citing Blaine, Sherman, Voorhees, Holman and others as instances where prominence was attained only after long service. Mr. Robinson had come from the common people, knew their wants because all his life his environments were such that he could realize which legislation was best for the great mass of humanity. Always faithful, attentive to his duties, there had never been a time when the humblest of his constituents could make a demand which did not receive attention. The duty of democrats was to remember that if democratic principles were to prevail they must become laws through the congress of the United States and therefore democrats should have a care when they cast their ballots next Tuesday. Referring to Mr. McKinley's Philippine policy Mr. Breen said:

"After the close of the civil war, with the nation united and at peace with all countries, fortified with friendly Mexico on the south, and flanked on east and west by the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, I could see no possibility or reason why we should ever become involved in another war. The citizens of the United States look upon war as a relic of barbarism, and when I thought of these things I could divine no reason for more war, but time has proven that I was not skilled in the art of divination. There lies to the south of us the Pearl of the Antilles for years dominated by Spanish misrule. As the power of Spain decayed, discontent increased among the Cubans, and they could not be reconciled. Time after time there arose insurrections, which were put down by force, until finally the sentiment of the American people became so strong that it would not be cut and war was at last proclaimed, for the sake of liberty and humanity, which President McKinley emphatically announced was not for any purpose of aggression."

He reviewed the history of the Philippine islands under Spanish rule, which gradually aroused their antagonism and produced insurrections of a serious nature. The new movement, under the leadership of Aguinaldo, was begun in 1897, under which a civil form of government was instituted, which Admiral Dewey himself said was a well conceived one. When the war was followed into Manila Bay, Aguinaldo went to meet the American fleet, and imparted all the information possible relative to the country, its harbors, and conditions which would be of assistance to the Americans, and was accepted as an ally, only to find later that he had been deceived and betrayed. This was what aroused his indignation and induced him to organize and head an army to dispute with the Americans the right to deprive his people of rights which they had fought the Spaniards to secure. This is what any man would have done, and the policy is the same as England has been practicing toward Ireland, India, and later of the people of the Transvaal, and thus did England attempt to deal with us, until we arose in our righteous might and threw off the yoke of their power.

Thus has the republican party departed from the policy of Lincoln. The democratic party promises you, through their platform and the utterances of their leader that the important policy shall endure; that the Philippines shall be permitted to erect a government of its own, under its own sovereignty; that he shall return to the principles of the Declaration of Independence, and particularly the principle which provides that the constitution is necessary to the continuance of a democratic form of government. The democratic party is pledged to change this policy, and under the leadership of that prodigy of the nineteenth century, William J. Bryan, the false prophets and gods will be turned out, and we shall again worship in the temple of liberty, justice and truth.

MR. COLERICK'S ADDRESS.

Henry Colerick was next introduced by Chairman Fleming and he was heartily cheered when he stepped to the front and began his talk by paying a high tribute to Mr. Breen. Mr. Colerick then launched into a thoroughly discussion of the trust question, handling it in his own brilliant, forcible and entertaining style. He had provided himself with statistics and illustrations, most of them new to his hearers and plainly showed to them the dangers that threatened the people through a continuance of that policy which made it possible for aggregated wealth to control legislation and thus rob the great mass of people of their honestly earned pittance. He called attention to the fact that several local industries had been threatened by trusts while others had been completely closed down and their employees and the business men were the sufferers. In some instances, too, the men who had once owned and controlled these establishments were made to feel the terrible encroachments of the iniquitous combinations. He dissected some republican statistics which had been published by pot metal corners and distributed among the workmen, and demonstrated clearly that while there had been an increase in wages, very slight in some instances, the increase in the cost of commodities and especially articles controlled by trusts was in far greater proportion than the increase in wages. Therefore, the great common people, even including the business men, were far worse off than they were a few years ago. Trusts would continue to grow under the Hanna-McKinley prosperity until finally the business man of today would be only the manager or foreman of the future.

He took up the recent declaration of Mark Hanna, that there are no trusts, and in contradiction to this quoted Governor Mount, of Indiana, and the Indiana supreme court records on the constitutionality of the trusts. He referred to Benjamin Harrison, who spoke of the tariff creating a home market, which would result in a healthy competition. This is why he is not heard from in this campaign, because the tariff enacted at that time was so high that it shut out all competition, and paved the way for the organization of hundreds of trusts.

He appealed to the voters to stand by the democratic ticket, which is headed by a man who, because of a promise made his mother, while a child on her knee, has never tasted tobacco nor liquor, and has never uttered an oath or a smutty word. "When do you think," he asked, "that a man who will keep a promise in this way can fail you or the American people of any promise he may make them?"

POLITICAL GOSSIP.

For the accommodation of the Washburn Shoppers' McKinley club the company will run a special train to Peru this evening, leaving this city at 5:45. It is expected that there will be quite a number of excursionists on the train.

Hon. James M. Robinson will speak to the voters of the west end of the city at Schroeder's hall next Monday evening.

Next Monday evening there will be a general meeting of all club members at the Jefferson club rooms at which business of importance will be transacted. Matters pertaining to election day will be discussed and it is desired that members of every democratic club who can shall attend. The Hendricks and Jefferson clubs will go to Columbia City Saturday evening and repay the Columbia Cityites for their visit to this city on Cockran day. Members of all other clubs are invited to accompany them. The train will leave the Pennsylvania depot at 6:45 and the round trip fare will be 50 cents.

Democratic club members will meet at their headquarters at 6:30 this evening and form for the parade.

Hon. S. M. Hench will speak at Fremont, Ind., next Monday evening.

LIABILITIES ARE HEAVY.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 2.—Judge McPherson, in the United States district court, upon the request of creditors of Wm. Browne & Sons, and the Phoenix Mills company, has appointed as receivers for the firms Thomas Walstenholme and Frank H. Keene. Further argument will be heard as to the appointment of a third receiver. The two concerns, which are practically the same, are manufacturers of worsted yarns and their combined liabilities are placed at $2,140,000. That the concerns have been in financial difficulties has been known for some time and there have been frequent meetings of creditors in an effort to come to some arrangement satisfactory to all concerned. Depression in business and the borrowing of $1,000,000 on wool pledged with them is said to have caused their failure.

WANTS CASE RESUBMITTED.

New York, Nov. 2.—District Attorney Gardner appeared before Justice Fursman in the criminal branch of the supreme court yesterday and asked that an order be signed resubmitting the evidence in the case of the Traders' Fire Insurance company to the November grand jury on the charge of a violation of section 811 of the penal code regarding the presentation of a false statement of a corporation by its officials. It is alleged that a false statement was made in January by the company. The company's directorate includes a number of very prominent names.

publican party today stands for a large army. No republican speaker has appeared on any platform with authority to withdraw the president's recommendation of an army of 100,000. But, stranger still, no republican speaker, so far as I have seen, has appeared on any platform, read the recommendation of the president, declared it was the policy of the party, and attempted to defend the policy. Therefore, I repeat, the republican party has brought this question into the campaign and then has dropped it like a foundling left on a doorstep. The republican party dares not defend the president's recommendation.

"When the campaign opened Mr. Roosevelt started out to make fun of our objection to a large army. At Detroit he had four soldiers stand up before the audience, and then he asked the audience if they were afraid of those four soldiers. But that is no argument. That question can be asked whenever any increase is demanded, until the army is so large that you will be afraid to say that you are afraid even if you are afraid."

"No king ever asked for a large army all at once. When a king wants to increase his army he asks for a little now and gets it, then he asks for a little more and gets it, and he keeps asking and keeps getting until he builds up a military establishment to support the doctrine of the divine right of kings."

"That question is not an argument; but, even that question has disappeared, and I will tell you of one man in the United States who is afraid of an army of 100,000. It is the republican candidate for vice president, because he knows that no defense can be made of that army of 100,000, and he shows that he is afraid of the army by now trying to give other explanations."

"What are we going to do with the 75,000 soldiers demanded by the republican party? Do we need them for service outside of the United States? If so, then I ask you what you think of a policy, what you think of a colonial system, that requires three times as many soldiers to force upon 8,000,000 people a government without their consent and taxation without representation as it does to take care of 75,000,000 people in this country, who govern themselves and levy their own taxes."

"If we do not want these soldiers for service outside we must want them for service in the United States. If these soldiers are to stay here we must either keep them idle or keep them busy, and nobody can defend an idle army of 100,000 in a country like this. And yet I would rather that we should maintain an army of 100,000 in idleness than maintain an army of that size in this country and keep it busy. Why do we want an increased army for domestic purposes? What has happened in this country to make an increase in the army necessary for domestic purposes? Nothing has happened here but a republican administration, and does a republican administration make more soldiers necessary at home? If we have prosperity on every hand do we need a large army to point out the prosperity to us with bayonets?"

"There are people in this country who have for years wanted a larger standing army in the United States. Those at the head of great syndicates have sometimes felt that we needed a stronger government and more soldiers to support it. There is only one explanation for a large army kept in this country and kept busy and that is to suppress by force the discontent among the people that ought to be cured by legislation."

HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—William Jennings Bryan found that history repeats itself, when last night, as he was leaving Central Turner hall, 1103 Milwaukee avenue, three eggs were hurled from the crowd into the head carriage, where the thrower supposed the presidential nominee to be.

This carriage was occupied by four detectives, who were accompanying Mr. Bryan from place to place. Counts of all three of the ancient eggs splattered over the sleuths, and a crowd of 10,000 howling democrats in front, who supposed with the egg-thrower that their idol was in the first carriage, would have mobbed him had not one of the detectives jumped from the vehicle and arrested the man, whom he straightaway turned over to the uniformed police.

Then the carriage drove rapidly away to the next meeting place. Mr. Bryan was not allowed to discover how near he had been to a repetition of the incident which marked one of his visits to the city in 1896.

WARMLY GREETED.

THE PEOPLE'S STORE,

BEADLE & COMPANY.

lism and a continual roar of applause. Thirty thousand people heard what Mr. Bryan had to say upon the issues of the campaign and an equal number fought vainly to gain access to the eight halls in which he spoke.

The enthusiasm was so intense that people followed him from place to place, running after his carriage, while en route from each place to the next the walks were lined and the windows filled with people anxious, if they could not hear him, at least to get a look at him.

At his approach to a hall the air resounded with shouts of "Three cheers for Bryan!" the cry being drowned out by the cheers themselves. It was with the greatest difficulty that his carriage could be forced through the dense throngs to the entrances of the various meeting places.

At every place, from curb to curb, a platoon of police had to fight as for its life to hold open a passage by which Bryan might enter the building. Immediately he was in, as many of the crowd as could do so were allowed to follow in behind him and jam up into the few vacant spaces.

SPEAKS AT EIGHT HALLS. There were eight halls in which the candidate spoke last night. Their capacity was stretched to the utmost. People began crowding into them two hours before the time advertised for him to appear. Among the early comers were women and children, who vied with the men in their applause and shouts of approval as he scored the republican administration and its policies, or laid down the principles of the democracy he represents.

Back of these, who were for the most part in the seats, there was a solid mass of masculine humanity wedged in so tight that it was impossible for another to squeeze in, and still back through doorways and in halls could be seen those who were furiously pushing to get within sight or hearing. The crowds were enormous and they were thoroughly democratic. Chicago democracy had turned out to see its standard-bearer. Mr. Bryan's appearance upon every platform was a signal for a storm of applause which jarred the building.

CHEER CONTINUOUSLY. "Three cheers for Bryan!" would come the cry after the first involuntary cheer of welcome had gone up. Then would come another, "Our next president," and the cheers would roar forth with redoubled force.

"Order! order!" would then resound from all over the house, and those not participating in this command would cry, "Sh-l-l-l-l-l-l!" It sounded like hissing, but there was not a meeting in all the eight where hissing took place.

In spite of the hard campaigning in which he had indulged prior to this visit to Chicago, Mr. Bryan showed no ill effects. He was in good voice and happy mood, and his oratory improved with each new place. At the places which he visited later in the evening he was decidedly merry and the humorous illustrations with which he interlarded his arguments brought forth laughter as hearty as the applause which he won every time he scored a point.

Proposed Amendments.

To the Voters of Allen County:

"At the ensuing election there will be submitted to the voters of this county two constitutional amendments. So that everyone may intelligently understand these amendments, exact copies are herewith submitted:

"A joint resolution to amend Section two (2) of Article seven (7) of the Constitution of the State of Indiana, approved March 8, 1897."

"Section 1. Be it resolved by the general assembly of the state of Indiana that the following proposed amendment to the constitution of said state be, and the same is now agreed to, and referred to the general assembly of said state, to be chosen at the next general election:

"Amend section two of article seven of said constitution to read as follows:

"Section 2. The supreme court shall consist of not less than five nor more than eleven judges, a majority of whom shall form a quorum, and they shall hold their offices for six years if they so long behave well. Any vacancy caused by death or resignation shall be filled by the governor, as is now provided by the constitution, but any increase in the number of judges shall not be filled by appointment, but election at the next general election, after any increase is ordered."

"A joint resolution to amend section twenty-one (21) of article seven (7) of the constitution of the state of Indiana, approved March 8, 1897. Section 1. Be it resolved by the general assembly of the state of Indiana, that the following proposed amendment to the constitution of said state be, and the same is now agreed to, and referred to the general assembly of said state, to be chosen at the next general election:

Section 21. The general assembly shall by law prescribe what qualifications shall be necessary for admission to practice law in all courts of justice.

It is of the utmost importance to litigants in the state of Indiana that it be placed within the power of the people of the state to increase the number of our supreme judges. Since the adoption of our former constitution in 1852 the state has increased in population, wealth and commercial interests that our present supreme court has not an adequate force to transact the immense bulk of business which is almost monthly placed upon its records. The result has been disastrous to business interests, has delayed settlement of questions affecting our large concerns and caused, in many instances, irreparable loss to those seeking a final adjustment of their rights. This condition of affairs is so manifest that it is only necessary to call the attention of the intelligent voters to the necessity of an increase in our supreme judges and the propriety of voting for the adoption of this amendment.

As to the adoption of the amendment to the constitution regulating the admission of members to the bar, everyone will feel that to empower the legislature to pass laws regulating the admission of persons well qualified intelligently and morally to practice before the bar will secure not only protection to litigants, but increase the reputation and standing of members of the profession throughout the state. Under the constitution as it stands any qualified voter of good moral character is entitled to admission, even though he has never studied the elementary principles of the law and does not intend to follow the profession. The result of this has been so apparent in the many disasters which have occurred to litigants, who have entrusted their litigation to lawyers not qualified to practice, that it has not only brought reproach upon the judiciary of the state, but has subjected the state itself to much ridicule.

It is the sense of both political parties of this county that the above amendments to the constitution should be adopted by the voters of Allen county, irrespective of party, and to the end that every citizen may know that there is unanimity of opinion on this subject between the two parties this communication is submitted to the voters, signed by the chairmen of the committees of the respective parties.

CANDIDATE COMMITS SUICIDE.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Nov. 2.—

Henry B. Proctor, county treasurer for four years and republican candidate for state senator in the Seventeenth district, committed suicide yesterday with laudanum. A committee of the board of supervisors reported this week that his retention of certain interest money was contrary to law and partisan use was made of this to attack his character. These attacks and ill-health caused mental derangement. He was 40 years old. His wife and one son survive him. A. W. Weeks, of Lowell, will probably be put on the ticket to succeed Proctor as candidate for state senator.

ENTHUSIASTIC CONVERTS.

There Are Thousands of Them Who Believe as This Woman Does.

Mrs. Ira Knowlton, of Butte, Mont., is a most enthusiastic convert to the virtues of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets as a cure for obstinate stomach trouble. She says: "I had poor digestion nearly all my life. It now seems to me that for years I never knew what it was to be hungry, to have a good, natural appetite."

"It was troubled with gas in stomach, causing pressure on the heart, with palpitation and short breath. Nearly everything I ate soured on my stomach—sometimes I had cramps in the stomach which almost resembled spasms."

"Doctors told me I had catarrh of the stomach, but their medicines would not reach it and I would still be a sufferer and I was, in sheer desperation, decided to try Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets."

"I knew they were an advertised remedy and I didn't believe anything I read about them, as I had no confidence in advertised remedies, but my sister living in Pittsburgh wrote me last spring telling me how Stuart's Tablets had cured her and her little daughters of indigestion and loss of flesh and appetite and I hesitated no longer."

"I bought a fifty-cent box at my drug store and took two of the large tablets after each meal and found them delightful to take, being as pleasant to the taste as caramel candy. Whenever during the day or night I felt any pain or uneasiness in the stomach or about the heart, I took one of the small tablets and in three weeks it seemed to me as if I had never known what stomach trouble was."

"I keep Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in the house and every member of our family uses them occasionally after a hearty meal or when any of us have a pain or ache in the digestive organs."

Mr. E. H. Davis, of Hampton, Va., says: "I doctored five years for dyspepsia, but in two months I got more benefit from Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets than in five years of the doctors' treatment."

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the safest, as well as the simplest and most convenient remedy for any form of indigestion; catarrh of stomach; biliousness, sour stomach, flatulence after meals, sympathetic heart trouble.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is not a cheap cathartic, but an active digestive remedy containing the pepsin and diastase which every weak stomach lacks and they cure stomach troubles because they digest the food eaten and give the weak, abused, over-worked stomach a chance to rest and recuperate.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold in every drug store in the United States, Canada and Great Britain.

The attempt of certain administration organs in the east to get up a jingo boom for Mr. McKinley at the expense of Germany has been neatly knocked on the head. The Cologne Gazette, speaking by authority, states that there is no truth in the story that the Kaiser's government has leased or thought of leasing a coaling station from Venezuela, and declares that "Germany does not covet any acquisition in the vicinity of the American continent."

Apparently Senator Burrows, of Michigan, is not so confident that Mr. Hanna will carry Illinois, and Illinois is admitted to be a pivotal state. In an interview with a newspaper man the other day Mr. Burrows was asked what he thought of things in Chicago. Here Mr. Burrows made one of the snarl breaks, known as a "flip in private conversation," and replied, "I am perfectly confident that we will win. I am just as confident as I was in 1892." He has been trying to explain it ever since, but there are many who believe him a true prophet and have faith in his words.

New Jersey is the home of trusts, but as an offset it is also the home of good roads, and Indiana would do well to take a leaf out of the book of the little Jersey commonwealth in the latter respect. At present that state has a law on its statute books providing that when two-thirds of the property owners along a certain road wish to have it improved and are willing to pay one-tenth of the costs of the improvement, the balance shall be made up between the state and the county, the state paying one-third of the total cost and the county the rest. Under this law in less than ten years, sandy New Jersey has become the home of good roads, more than 1,000 miles of fine highways having been constructed at a cost to the state of but little over $2,000,000. Both farmers and city dwellers are enthusiastic over the benefits of the law and the early opposition to the movement on account of the expected burden of taxation has been swept away by the comparatively small cost of the great advantages which have accrued to the people of the state.

If the world were not busy with graver matters, a great deal of interest would be excited by the reports of a serious Carlist rising which are beginning to come over the wires. All the signs point to widespread preparations for another attempt to put the vicious and reactionary Don Carlos on the throne. His faction appears to regard the present, when the leading powers are closely preoccupied, as an excellent time to renew the fight. If the chief of the party were a different sort of man, we might expect a serious war in Spain, but the chances are that he would desert his followers about as soon as he should succeed in getting their necks in the halter for his sake.

The census bureau officially announces the population of the United States, including Hawaii and American soldiers absent on service, and excluding the inhabitants of Porto Rico, Guam, Tutuila and the Philippines, as 76,295,220, on June 30, 1900. This is a net gain of about 21 per cent, on the population in 1880, which the census of that year placed at 63,069,756, and is evidence of healthy and satisfactory national progress. The growth of population in this country from the time of the first census was taken in 1790 has been little short of marvelous. Then it aggregated 3,929,214. In 1800, the second census showed that the total population was 5,308,483. In a century our gain in inhabitants has been 70,986,737 souls. Truly, this is a great country.

A PRIMATE'S VIEWS.

The views of Dr. J. I. Spalding, Catholic bishop of the Peoria diocese, are always interesting and valuable, of whatsoever subject they treat, and his opinions of the trusts will be given the most serious attention. Bishop Spalding is one of the leaders of public opinion in the west. He is popular and highly esteemed not only in his church, but by general outside of his own communion. He is widely known as an American of high "culture," broad views, and intense patriotism. His heart, like Lincoln's, is with the common people, the millions who make up the nation in its broader sense and the nation in its true sense. In a speech in Chicago one night this week Bishop Spalding in the presence of a large audience addressed the Chicago Federation of Teachers. He thus discussed the trusts:

"The corporation that grows rich while it deprives the poor man of the rewards of his labor, is worse than a highway robber.

"A corporation has no soul that say; but a trust has a soul, a devil's soul."

Speaking of the tendency of the time to treat great criminal combinations with leniency, he declared that "we have come to where we do not call things by their right names. We have lost largely the power of moral indignation." Continuing, he asked:

"What is at the bottom of this dishonesty? Greed, greed. The belief that money is man's chief good is the root of the commercialism—that it is more important to have cheap goods and compete in all the markets of the world than to have free, honest, intelligent, self-respecting men and women. The time is bound to come when men, looking back fifty years or a hundred years from now, will consider us as ignorant and as barbarous and as cruel as savages.

"Why are these trusts such an evil? I know they say they make themselves necessary. They would cut one another's throats if they did not combine in a trust. They form a trust. They capitalize it at four or five times the value of their property, and then they have to pay dividends upon these fictitious values. To do it they grind the poor. They can't pay the teachers' salaries. They starve the children; they take the heart out of the mother, and drive the father to the saloon and to murder."

Yet we have a Senator Hanna who swears that trusts do not exist in the United States, a Senator Scott who asserts that "trusts are a good thing," and that McKinley property is due to the Standard Oil company, and a Senator Beveridge who unblushingly and with exultation declares that the trusts are the hope of the young men of this nation. Between such authorities and a patriot and philanthropist like the revered Bishop Spalding, American voters will take their choice.

SHERMAN ON IMPERIALISM.

The following is the concluding paragraph of the autobiography of the late John Sherman, and seems peculiarly apt at this time, especially to the free republicans. They were printed just about six years ago, when Mr. Sherman was in possession of his full mental powers. They are to be found in volume II, page 1,216, of his memoirs. Mr. Sherman says: "The events of the future are beyond the vision of mankind, but I hope that our people will be content with internal growth and avoid the complications of foreign acquisitions. Our family of states is already large enough to create embarrassments in the senate, and a republic should not hold dependent provinces or possessions."

"Every new acquisition will create embarrassments. Canada and Mexico as independent republics will be more valuable to the United States than if carved into additional states. The Union already embraces discordant elements enough without adding others.

"If my life is prolonged I will do all I can to add to the prosperity and strength of the United States, but nothing to extend its limits or to add new dangers by the acquisition of foreign territory."

It will be remembered that two years after this was written and printed Hon. John Sherman was made secretary of state.

REHM-KLEPPER.

A very pretty wedding occurred at 6 o'clock Thursday evening at the home of the bride, 10 Will street, when Miss Sophie Klepper, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Klepper, was united in marriage to William Rehm. Rev. C. Gross, pastor of Emmanuel's Lutheran church, performed the ceremony in the presence of relatives and a few close friends. The bride's dress was of white tulle, with lace trimmings, and she carried a bouquet of chrysanthemums. Her traveling gown was of gray cloth, with purple trimming, with hat to match. The rooms were prettily decorated with palms and flowers, and a supper and reception followed the wedding ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Rehm left at 12:30 o'clock this morning for Cincinnati, where they will make their future home. Mr. Rehm formerly resided in this city, but for the past two years has been connected with the Union News company at Cincinnati. Both have many warm friends in this city, who will wish them happiness in their future years.

TO SAVE SISTER

GEORGE GOULD MAY GO AFTER COUNTESS CASTELLANE.

LIKELY TO BRING HER BACK

MAY ROB SPENDTHRIFT COUNT OF HIS RICH WIFE.

SEPARATION IS LOOKED FOR

GEORGE GOULD IS GOING TO PARIS SOON.

New York, Nov. 2.—George Gould had a long conference with his sister Helen at Irvington yesterday, at which it was decided that he should go to Paris as soon as some important meetings, at which his presence is imperative, are held, and take charge of the financial affairs of the Countess de Castellane. These meetings are scheduled for the next few weeks.

A close friend of the Gould family said:

"Don't be at all surprised if when Mr. Gould returns from his contemplated visit to Paris he is accompanied by his sister, the countess."

"At yesterday's conference measures were decided upon for the management of Anna's monetary affairs. I believe I have good ground for saying that the chief result of the conference was somewhat like this: PLANS FOR SETTLEMENT."

"It was decided to try to effect an agreement with the Castellane creditors whereby they will grant ten years' time in which the debts shall be paid. Efforts will be made to get them to waive interest. The Goulds think the creditors will do this, as they will be glad enough to get paid in full."

"The money to settle the debts will be taken from Anna's income. So, not considering interest, $470,000 will be the annual deduction, as the total amount of the debts is $4,700,000. This will leave Anna about $180,000 a year for herself, her income being $600,000."

"Gould may be left in Paris to shift for himself, for, as I said before, it is not at all unlikely that Anna will return to America. And $180,000 a year will be enough for her to live upon if she has not the count and his extravagances to support."

SAME AS RECEIVERSHIP.

Ex-Judge John E. Dillon, general counsel for the Gould family, said:

"In circumstances like these, where a family in France incurs much indebtedness, it is the French custom to hold a family council. The various members of the family get together and talk the situation over. Then the matter is laid before the proper court, which always respects the decision of the family council. Such was the case in this regard. The move was in reality a protective measure made necessary by the heavy expenditures and indebtedness on the part of the count and the countess."

"Were the Countess de Castellane's wishes followed in this matter or was the move made independent of her?" was asked.

"It was not necessary to consult the countess. She acquiesced, naturally. You see, the situation is the duplication of a receivership. It is in reality a family receivership for the estate of the count and countess. When a business concern gets deeply into debt a receiver is appointed by the courts at the request of the stockholders, and no further debts can be assumed without the consent of the receiver."

DEBTS PILING UP.

"The income of the countess is placed at $600,000. It is probably less and fluctuates naturally, according to business conditions. The amount of indebtedness sworn to is placed at $4,700,000. It would be unwise to let this go on. Consequently, at the request of the family, a trustee, or receiver, has been appointed by a family court and the count and countess can no longer incur any more debts without his permission; their expenditures must be kept within the income, and the debt must be paid gradually."

"It is said that the Count de Castellane is not pleased over the appointment of the trustee, or receiver. Was he consulted?"

"No. As to his feelings in the matter I know nothing. But there is no reason for his being displeased."

"Will Mr. Gould, in qualifying for trustee for his sister, have to go through any legal proceedings here or appear in person there?"

"No. His appointment by the judge of the civil tribunal of Paris is final. He can be represented by an attorney in Paris."

MRS. VAN LIEW IS INDICTED.

Van Wert, Ohio, Nov. 2.—The grand jury last evening returned an indictment against Mrs. Emma Van Liew, wife of the cashier of the Van Wert First National bank, charging her with the murder, in the first degree, of Miss Alice Hammell, who died, as a result of having oil of vitriol thrown in her face. Mrs. Van Liew was arrested last evening, and is now in jail, bail having been refused. The crime was committed five weeks ago. Miss Hammell was attracted to a clump of bushes near her home one evening by a noise which she supposed was caused by some of the animals on the farm. As she pushed the vines apart to investigate a woman hurled a pint of vitriol in her face. The poor girl managed to crawl to the kitchen door and tell her mother what had happened. She lost her eyes, nose, lips and portions of her neck and arms, and finally died after more than a month of the most terrible agony.

An immediate investigation discovered the bucket which had contained the vitriol, and this was traced to Mrs. Van Liew, who was arrested and put under heavy bonds, which she furnished, and was released until last evening.

SWINDLES WERE EXTENSIVE

LODGE OF THE MACCABEES VICTIMIZED.

A Fugitive Councilman of Shamokin, Pa., is Found to Have Practiced Insurance Frauds.

Shamokin, Pa., Nov. 2.—O. J. Reed, an ex-councilman, who was recently convicted of conspiracy in connection with borough paving contracts and admitted to bail pending a decision of the superior court for a new trial, disappeared three days ago. Last night it was discovered that the local lodge of Maccabees, of which he was record keeper, had been swindled out of $6,000 by forged death certificates of Benjamin Davis and Thomas Shoener. Davis, who was in Michigan, not long before he was listed as dead in the official newspaper of the order, informed his relatives here that he was alive. This started an inquiry, followed by the appearance of G. J. Siegle, of Port Huron, Mich., who is a high official of the order. After a close investigation the irregularities were discovered.

FACTORY WILL MOVE.

Next week the imperial waist factory will move into the two large buildings formerly used by the Fort Wayne Furniture company, near the foot of Lafayette street, and adjacent to the plant of the Foster Waist factory. Since the fire which destroyed the plant at Columbia and Harrison streets some months ago the factory has been occupying a building at Columbia and Clinton streets, but these quarters are found to be entirely too small for the growing business of the imperial company. Manager Taft said this morning that the machinery was now being removed to the new location and next week it is hoped to get business started there with about 200 machines, just double the capacity of the present plant.

LEGISLATORS IN A FIGHT.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 2.—A special to the Journal from Valdosta, Ga., says: "An unfortunate affair occurred on the special train bringing the Georgia legislators here to attend the state fair. Several of the members, who, it is said, had been drinking, engaged in a fight in which knives were freely used. Mr. Harden, of Wilkes county, was stabbed by Member Hamby, of Carroll county. Cann, of Chatham, and two others were injured in trying to stop the fight. The train was held at Forsyth until medical attention was secured. Mr. Harden's condition was so serious that he was left at Forsyth for treatment."

MAY BE POSTPONED.

A social session had been announced to follow the plowing contest of the Washington and St. Joe township club tomorrow evening, but Chairman Alexander Johnson stated this morning that this function will probably be postponed until some future date. It is found that the people are so thoroughly absorbed in politics that they have neglected to notify the committee of their intention to be present. If the dinner is postponed it may be held during the session of the county farmers' institute in December.

HONOR BOB HANNA

NOTABLE DEMONSTRATION FOR REPUBLICAN NOMINEE.

ECLIPSED TEDDY AND MARK

LARGEST REPUBLICAN PARADE OF THE YEAR.

OVATION AT PRINCESS RINK

CONGRESSIONAL CANDIDATE ON THE ISSUES.

Republicans of Allen county turned out in force last evening and united in a magnificent ovation in honor of Robert B. Hanna, the republican nominee for congress, and they unquestionably demonstrated the fact that in Port Wayne at least "Bob" Hanna is a bigger man than the republican leader, Marcus A. Hanna, who was their guest twenty-four hours previously. It was a signal honor to Mr. Hanna, too, for it was by all odds the most notable republican gathering of the present campaign, the parade eclipsing both in point of numbers and enthusiasm those for Governor Roosevelt and for Senator Hanna.

The Second ward, the home of Mr. Hanna, was much in evidence last evening. Voters turned out in the parade as they have done for no other speaker of the campaign and when the head of the parade marched down East Berry street it found many residences brilliantly illuminated in his honor. The parade received Mr. Hanna at his residence and escorted him to Princess rink between solid walls of cheering friends who lined the streets for square after square. Estimates as to the number in line vary greatly, but the actual number is believed to have been approximately 1,350 persons. Heading the line was the Wayne Tent band, and among the organizations forming the long line of marchers were the ward clubs, rough riders, street railway men, Tippecanoes, Soldiers', Sons' and Citizens' club, Railroad Men's club, Electric Works club, employees of the Bower factory, Kerr Murray works, Western Gas Construction company and Wayne Knitting mills, while several business houses had wagons in line.

GIVEN AN OVATION.

By the time the head of the procession reached Princess rink the auditorium was perhaps half filled with people and Judge Taylor was speaking pending the arrival of Mr. Hanna. The marchers and hundreds of spectators who had been patiently standing in the chill air watching the parade swarmed into the building from every entrance and in a few moments every seat was occupied, while many took up positions in the aisles and around the semi-circle at the rear of the seats. Mr. Hanna entered the building from the north door, worked his way through a crowd standing packed in the aisle and reached the stage before the vast audience was aware of his presence. As he stepped into view upon the platform there was an outburst of cheers.

It was with difficulty that Hugh Hogan, the chairman of the evening, stifled the cheering sufficiently to introduce the glee club, who sang a campaign song and were compelled to respond to an encore. Mr. Hanna was presented and as he arose to speak he received an ovation such as is given to few men. The vast audience rose to its feet and cheered, hats and handkerchiefs went into the air, the very building shook beneath the stamping of feet and the noisy clamor of three thousand voices. Mr. Hanna stood helpless waiting for the demonstration to subside, raising his hands again and again in gestures for silence, but it was several minutes before his delighted friends would subside. For a moment there was a semblance of quiet and Mr. Hanna said: "Well, that's about as much as I can stand," and at this the cheering broke forth anew, above the din coming the concerted yell of the Tippecanoe club and that of the high school boys.

MR. HANNA'S ADDRESS.

Mr. Hanna's emotion was plainly evident as he began speaking, and it was several minutes before he regained entire composure. He said in part:

"Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Genlemen: I can assure you an ovation like this is enough to touch any man's heart and it has touched mine. I appreciate very much indeed this expression of your good will and I have only one hope—that it will crystallize on the 6th of November."

The parade had kept passing the rink all the time, and as a lusty drum corps broke in upon the speech at this point Mr. Hanna stopped until it had gone by. "I believe that parade won't stop until morning," he remarked. "If my friend Robinson could see that I believe that he would be generous enough to move to make it unanimous." Continuing, Mr. Hanna said:

"I realize, my friends, that you have listened to men of very great ability discussing on this platform the very intricate questions that confront us, and I promise I will detain you but a very short while. But it seems to me that the issues of the campaign—the issues which our democratic friends call paramount—are in reality the same as were discussed and fought over four and eight years ago. Now, while it is not necessary to discuss the tariff, nor interesting to discuss the money question as to details, yet, I will say to you, my wage-earner friends, that when you go to the polls on the 6th of November you will not be called upon to vote for or against the trusts, nor for or against imperialism, but whether you favor fostering the industries of the country and the protection of the wage earner from want; whether you favor money as good as gold all over the world or a dollar worth less than fifty cents. In less than eight years we have seen the people of this country go from plenty to want and from want to plenty."

Mr. Hanna said that in 1892 the people went to the polls and voted for a change, and they got it, and the same question was in issue now. He contended that policies of great parties have an effect on business, that some bring on good times and some bring on hard times, and that when industrial success has been achieved by any policy it is dangerous to make a change. He said the experience of the past four years proved that the republican party was right in 1896. "The democrats said in 1896 that we needed more money, and we said we needed more business. They said we were pressing the crown of thorns upon the brow of labor, and we said we were giving labor something to do. They said to open the mints, and we said to open the mills. In the light of the past four years, who was right and who was wrong? We have had good times, the farmer has received high prices for his products, the merchant has received good prices for his goods and enjoyed a steady demand, the wage-earner has had steady work at good wages. So, when you go to the polls, the question will not be one of political parties, but whether you will vote in the interests of your pocketbooks, for your homes and for the country; whether you will vote for protection and sound money, or free trade and free silver."

"I have stated once or twice in this campaign, and I take pride in stating again, that there is no city of like size in the United States where so many people own their own homes as in Port Wayne. Now, what we want to do is to keep the conditions that have prevailed for four years. I want to see every wage-earner own his own home and be happy and prosperous, enjoying not only the necessities, but the luxuries of life. After he gets his new home, I want to see him put a Brussels carpet on the floor, buy the baby a new dress, roll in a piano, and let the oldest daughter play 'Home, Sweet Home.' If I felt, my friends, that the gold standard and a protective tariff were adverse to the interests of the wage-earner, I would not be advocating these principles here tonight. I believe in the uplifting of the wage-earner; I believe when we are doing that we are uplifting the country. I heard it stated last night that some of the leaders of the republican party are in sympathy with the wage-earners, and I say now that if the wage-earners have a friend in the upper house of congress they will have a friend in the lower house—a man of the same name."

Mr. Hanna took up the trust question and contended that it was not an issue in the campaign, because the trusts were unqualifiedly condemned by both the great political parties, and pledged himself if elected to support anti-trust legislation, regardless of who presented it. He referred to the war with Spain and said it was unfair and unkind in the democratic party to charge the republicans with responsibility for the Philippine antanglements, because democratic senators had voted to ratify the treaty of peace by which the islands were acquired. The speaker again referred to the prosperity existing in Port Wayne and exhibited a photograph of a train of Olds wagons en route for Cuba, which he said was a more eloquent prosperity address than any orator could make. He scouted as absurd the idea of imperialism in America, where the people are the real power, and in closing said:

"I want to say again that I appreciate very much this expression of kindness and that, while I do not underestimate in the least the friendship of my republican friends, yet I remember that two years ago it was my privilege to be a candidate for senator from this county, and it was my pleasure, through the kindness of my democratic friends to carry the city of Port Wayne. I have only one favor to ask, and that is, that you help me to carry it again. I don't know how you feel about it again, but I believe you will."

Mr. Hanna was given the closest attention and the applause which punctuated his address was frequent and generous. After he had closed Judge Taylor spoke briefly endorsing Mr. Hanna's candidacy and said if the people would elect Mr. Hanna he would forgive them for not electing him (Taylor) when he was a candidate for the same position twenty years ago.

ATTEMPTED COERCION IN FORT WAYNE.

Close upon the heels of Mark Hanna came also his cousin, Hugh Hanna, of Indianapolis, the head and front of the single gold standard movement and the author of new national banking law, by which the absolute control of the currency of the country has been placed in the hands of the national banks.

Mr. Hugh Hanna was entertained at a banquet last night at the Randall hotel by certain republican bankers and manufacturers, and to which all the large employers of labor in Port Wayne were invited, but the invitations have not reached any of the employers.

Mr. Hugh Hanna, we are reliably informed, urged upon every employer of labor in Port Wayne to either personally set, or have some trusted official or foreman to see, every employee and urge upon him to vote for McKinley and his cousin, Bob Hanna, because it was for the interest of manufacturers to continue the present administration, and to have a congress in harmony with McKinley.

Mr. Hanna realizing the fact that the wage earners of the country are everywhere revolting against the pernicious policy of imperialism, militarism and the trusts, which have enormously increased to them the prices of every commodity of life, without any corresponding increase in their daily or hourly wages, and intend to cast their votes for that fearless champion of the rights of the common people, William Jennings Bryan, is traveling over the state urging upon the employers of labor to coerce their wage earners by threats of reduced wages and the closing of factories unless their employees vote as they demand.

We do not believe that the manufacturers of our great city will heed the advice of Mr. Hanna and insult and degrade their employees by any attempt to control their votes.

We are informed, however, that in two or three instances the officials of certain corporations have made such an attempt, but with the result that most of their employees will resent the insult by their ballots.

We trust that no considerable number of the men who stand at the head of our great manufacturing industries can be induced to engage in such methods; but if any shall, it will be known to his employees, and we have sufficient confidence in the intelligence and courage of the laboring men of Port Wayne, to believe that every wage earner so sought to be coerced in his vote, regardless of his past party affiliation will defend and protect, as he would his life, that dearest and most sacred right of every citizen, the right to cast a free and untrammelled ballot.

WEATHER FOR NOVEMBER

SPECIAL BULLETIN ISSUED BY THE BUREAU.

Statements Based on Weather Conditions as Determined by Long Series of Observations.

Washington, Nov. 2.—Willis L. Morris, chief of the weather bureau, has issued the following statement on the weather for November:

The following statements are based on average weather conditions for November as determined by long series of observations. As the weather of any given November does not conform strictly to the average conditions the statements cannot be considered as forecasts.

In its general character November weather forms a means between the heat of late summer and early fall and the cold of winter; and in marked contrast to the severe storms of August, September and October the weather in the tropical and sub-tropical regions of the Atlantic ocean is usually settled and fine. In the Pacific ocean and on the south-eastern coasts of Asia the typhoon season is nearing its end. In the middle latitudes of the oceans the winds become stronger and blow more steadily from the northwest, shifting to west; southwest, and south as a given parallel is followed from their western to their eastern shores.

The storms encountered in the middle latitudes are not as strong as the tropical bred storms of the preceding months nor the storms which occur during the winter season.

The southward flow of arctic ice in the Atlantic has ceased, and but little fog is encountered in the trans-Atlantic steamship routes near New Foundland.

In the United States the Pacific coast wet season begins in October and the rainfall increases until December. Over the middle and northern plateau regions there is an in-

In the interior of the gulf and South Atlantic states garden truck is subject to damage by frost, and damaging frost is likely to occur in Central and Northern Florida in November.

IS UNDER ARREST

MICHAEL PULLEY TRIED TO DESTROY HIS FAMILY.

HE RESORTED TO DYNAMITE

HAS PRACTICALLY CONFESSED TO THE CRIME.

HAPPENINGS IN HOOSIERDOM

GENERAL NEWS OF THE STATE OF INDIANA.

Marion, Ind., Nov. 2.—Michael Pulley, a once prominent farmer of this county, was arrested near Hanfield, this county, for attempting to murder his entire family by use of a stick of dynamite. The attempt was made in the home of his wife, from whom he had separated, and who is living in Elwood. Pulley has confessed his guilt in the matter and has thrown himself on the mercy of the court. Shortly before midnight Saturday Mrs. Pulley was awakened in her home in Elwood by the smell of smoke. She searched the house and found a stick of dynamite with a lighted fuse lying on the piano. It had evidently been placed there through an open window. She had barely time to throw the stick into the yard before it exploded. As it was the explosion tore a great hole in the ground and badly damaged the home of Mrs. Pulley, as well as a house adjoining it, but no one was injured. Mrs. Pulley suspected her husband and Elwood officers came to Marion, and, assisted by local officers, arrested Pulley, and placed him in jail.

Saturday, Pulley says, he came to Marion and bought the dynamite and drove to Elwood for the purpose of destroying the home of his wife, together with herself and her son-in-law, Frank Hollis, and family, who live in the same house. He said he arrived at Elwood a little before midnight and went at once to his wife's home. He raised a window and placed the explosive, with the fuse lighted, on the piano. He then returned to Marion, arriving here early Sunday morning. Pulley was taken to Elwood. He is fifty-nine years of age and has spent most of his life in this city.

TRIES TO KILL HER HUSBAND.

Marion, Ind., Nov. 2.—Edna Stewart, 17 years of age, attempted to shoot her husband, E. G. Stewart, at the Campbell house in this city at a late hour Wednesday night. Stewart deserted his wife in Muncie recently after a year of married life. He came to Marion and secured a position in the Canton glass factory. Mrs. Stewart came here from Muncie and located her husband at a boarding house in West Marion. She called him from the house and requested him to live with her. Stewart refused, and she then drew a revolver from the folds of her dress, pointed it at his heart and pulled the trigger. In taking the revolver from her dress a handkerchief caught on the hammer and prevented the cartridge from exploding. Stewart caught his wife and held her until assistance arrived, and she was turned over to a policeman and placed in jail. When she was seen at the jail she said she would kill her husband at the first opportunity.

CHOKED TO DEATH ON A BEAN.

Peru, Ind., Nov. 2.—The 3-year-old son of William Swingle, near Ambury, choked to death on a bean, which lodged in his windpipe. While seeking to remove the obstruction the physicians were so far successful that one of them had the bean almost within his grasp, but an accidental twitching of the child's body caused it to slip still farther down and death resulted from strangulation.

WORK OF KINDLY NEIGHBORS.

Elkhart, Ind., Nov. 2.—John Blake died on his farm near here a few days ago and his long ill health had resulted in much work in the gathering of crops being left undone. Yesterday fifty farmers, with well-filled lunch baskets, repaired to the Blake farm, and before the worried widow knew it, the handsome corn crop had been husked and stored and enough wood drawn and cut to last the family all winter.

HE TOUCHED A LIVE WIRE.

Logansport, Ind., Nov. 1.—John Morgan, a hickman in the employ of the city, had a frightful experience while stringing wire yesterday afternoon. He was at the top of a pole handling a live wire, and thoughtlessly threw his arm over a guy wire, which established a ground connection, and 500 volts rendered him helpless. He shouted for help and writhed in agony, unable to release his grasp of the wire, which was searing his hand and sending the current through his body. Ira Costenbender began climbing the pole to release his fellow-workman, and Will Parker ran to the city electric light plant, three squares away, and had the current shut off. In the meantime Morgan had become so weak from pain and exhaustion that he fainted, and would have fallen, when the current was shut off, but for the assistance of Costenbender, who carried him to the ground. He regained consciousness in a short time, and, aside from severe burns on his right hand, appeared to be little the worse for the shock.

MADE THE WOMEN ANGRY.

Marion, Ind., Nov. 2.—A son of Superintendent Harvey, of White's institute, an orphanage of Wabash county, narrowly escaped rough treatment from indignant officers and citizens of Marion last evening. Four little boys, ranging in years from eight to eleven, ran away from the institute a few days ago and were arrested in this city last Tuesday night. Young Harvey was sent here to return the youngsters home, the distance to which from Marion is seventeen miles. Harvey attempted to compel the children to walk. They were half naked, it is said, and bound with handcuffs to one another, and Harvey started them on the return trip, riding behind on his bicycle.

The sheriff's wife telephoned to her husband of Harvey's purpose and Harvey was overtaken by a deputy and compelled to return to the jail. Meanwhile the news spread over the city and a posse of women gathered and started after Harvey, determined to give him a horsewhipping, but the deputy prevented an attack.

After the party returned to the jail Judge St. John gave the young man a lecture, and he was seen on the train at 7 o'clock with the boys in custody, and was again warned to treat the youngsters kindly. Harvey said that his purpose in walking the boys back home was to give them an object lesson. Several times inmates of the institute have escaped and been recaptured, and it is alleged that on returning to the home they were given severe punishment. Complaints have arisen from time to time over the conduct of the institution, but the state board has never found any cause to interfere.

SAFE BLOWING IN PERRY.

Tell City, Ind., Nov. 2.—Last night burglars forced the safe in the office of James Doolittle, trustee of Oil township, this (Perry) county, and decamped with $3,600 cash and valuable notes. The money belongs to the township and had been reserved for school house purposes. Mr. Doolittle's term as trustee will soon expire. An effort is making to trail the robbers by means of bloodhounds.

EPIDEMIC THREATENED.

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 2.—The city is threatened with an epidemic of diphtheria. The board of education and the health authorities discussed the closing of the city schools last night. They will not be closed unless there is an increase in the number of cases. Five cases have developed in this city and the disease has also appeared in the rural districts.

A CHANGE OF LOCATION.

Auburn, Ind., Nov. 2.—C. B. Jones & Son have disposed of their lumber interests at Garrett and will locate permanently in this city. They are heavy stockholders in the gas engine plant which is being removed here from Garrett, the new building for which is nearly completed.

CALIFORNIA FRUIT CROP.

Los Angeles, Nov. 1.—During the citrus season of 1900, which closed last night, 17,821 cars of citrus fruits were shipped from southern California, of which about 2,000 were lemons. By November 6th the movement of new crops will have fairly begun and probably 3,000 cars will be shipped east for the holiday trade. The output for the coming season is estimated at over 20,000 carloads.

THE MARKETS.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—Unexpected strength at Liverpool created a firm wheat market here today. December opened 3/4c higher at 74 1/4c, reacted to 74 1/2c and rallied to 74 3/4c. Private cables reported Argentine prospects "satisfactory." Local receipts were 117 cars, 14 of contract grade. Minneapolis and Duluth reported 399 cars, against 363 last week and 718 a year ago.

The closing of three Minneapolis flour mills caused a further slump later to 73 3/4c, rallied to 73 1/2c, declined to 73 1/4c, and closed weak, 1/2c net lower at 73 1/4c.

Corn was dull but steady. December opened 1/2c to 1 1/4c higher at 35 1/2c to 35 3/4c. Receipts were 199 cars.

Oats were dull and featureless, December opening at 32 1/2c, compared with yesterday's close at 22c. Receipts were 108 cars.

Provisions started 5/7c higher on light hog receipts and stronger hog prices. January pork opened at $11.40 and sold off to $11.32 1/2; January lard opened at $6.60 to $6.62 1/2, and January ribs at $6.07 1/2, selling to $6.02 1/2.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, Nov. 2.—Higher prices in London caused sympathetic advances here in the International stocks, but selling met the advance and some stocks receded. People's Gas fell a sharp fraction. Pennsylvania, which sold ex-dividend of 3 1/2 per cent., opened unchanged.

The bears doled out small amounts of various stocks to test the market, and as prices gave way easily, particular efforts were made against Sugar, Brooklyn Transit and Manhattan. These stocks lost large fractions. Rock Island, Atchafalpa preferred and Union Pacific lost 1/2 each. Kansas City Southern lost 2 and Lake Erie and Western preferred 1 1/2. Business was small.

Support appeared in spots while certain stocks continued to decline, causing a very irregular market. The movement, however, was small both ways in the active list. Liquidation in American Linsseed Oil preferred forced it 1 1/4 lower and Lacde Gas and Minneapolis and St. Louis lost 1 1/2 each. At midday the fractions were steady. The Steel stocks rising, and Sugar, Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio and People's Gas declining. There was not enough doing on other stocks to indicate a tendency. Bonds were fairly active but irregular.

IN GOOD HEALTH

ROOSEVELT DENIES THAT HE HAS COLLAPSED.

HE LAUGHS AT THE STORIES

CONTINUES HIS CAMPAIGN IN

EMPIRE STATE.

VISITS PARTY STRONGHOLDS

SENATOR HANNA MISSED IN CHICAGO.

Jameslawn, N. Y., Nov. 2.—Governor Roosevelt was shown a newspaper today in which was published a rumor to the effect that he was on the verge of collapse from excessive work in the political campaign. The governor good-humoredly said his weight and general appearance were sufficient denial of the report; adding that he was actually in the best of health.

It is believed that the rumor arose from the fact that the governor wrote to New York city asking that he be excused from speaking on Saturday, and that the scheduled trip through Long Island for Monday be cancelled, as he wished to finish his speech-making in his own home village of Oyster Bay Monday night.

The governor and his party left here at 9 o'clock, bound for Oswego, with many stops scheduled on the way.

THE GOVERNOR'S SPEECH.

Olean, N. Y., Nov. 2.—The Roosevelt special made its first stop at Randolph, where the governor spoke briefly. At Olean Mr. Roosevelt said in part:

"I am passing through a part of the state which can always be depended upon to call up great majorities for the cause of decent citizenship. In this campaign that is the fundamental issue. We have a right to appeal to all men, without regard to their political affiliations in the past, to stand with us now, because this is no more party contest; this is a contest for the fundamental principles of American life, for orderly liberty, for decency, honor and that patriotism which sees in the flag a symbol of national greatness and wishes to uphold it in the face of the notions of mankind."

"More and more during the past few weeks the effects of our opponents' appeal to disorder have become manifest. Mr. Croker's open incitement to riot at the polls is but a fitting climax to the Bryanite campaign in which mob violence at political meetings has become a recognized feature."

The governor also said: "It is perfectly true that no legislation, no administration, can by itself bring prosperity. The wisest laws won't bring prosperity if the hand of the Lord is laid upon us. If there comes drought or flood or fire or pestilence, no law will save us from disaster, and there are some people whom nothing can make prosperous. All that laws can do is to do this: They can be so shaped, framed and administered as to give the average man the best possible chance to use right his own skill, thrift, courage, resolution and business capacity. That is all, and that has been done."

CANCER

Sufferers from this horrible malady nearly always inherit it—not necessarily from the parents, but may be from some remote ancestor. For Cancer often runs through several generations. This deadly poison may lay dormant in the blood for years, or until you reach middle life, then the first little sore or ulcer makes its appearance—or a swollen gland in the breast, or some other part of the body, gives the first warning.

To cure Cancer thoroughly and permanently all the poisonous virus must be eliminated from the blood—every vestige of it driven out. This S. S. S. does, and is the only medicine that can reach deep-seated, obdurate blood troubles like this. When all the poison has been forced out of the system the Cancer heals, and the disease never recurs.

Cancer begins often in a small way, as the following letter from Mrs. Shirer shows:

"A small pimple came on my jaw about an inch below the ear on the left side of my face. It gave me no pain or inconvenience, and I should have forgotten about it had it not begun to inflame and swell. It would bleed a little, then heal over, but would not heal. This continued for some time, and I began to feel very unwell, becoming very nervous. The Cancer began to eat and spread until it was as large as a half dollar, when I heard of S. S. S. and determined to give it a fair trial, and it was remarkable what a wonderful effect it had from the very beginning; the sore began to heal and after taking a few bottles disappeared entirely. This was two years ago; there are still no signs of the Cancer, and my general health continues good.—Miss R. Shirer, La Plata, Mo.

S. S. S. is the greatest of all blood purifiers, and the only one guaranteed purely vegetable. Send for our free book on Cancer, containing valuable and interesting information about this disease, and write our physicians about your case. We make no charge for medical advice.

FREIGHT BUSINESS

SHOWS AN IMPROVEMENT OVER
LAST YEAR.

1,517 CAR LOADS IN OCTOBER

A GAIN OF 551 OVER OCTOBER A
YEAR AGO.

A SEMI-ANNUAL INSPECTION

GRAND RAPIDS ROAD GETS AN OFFICIAL LOOKING OVER.

According to the report of H. M. Elliott, local representative of the Indiana Car Service association, October was a busy month with the shippers, merchants and manufacturers of Fort Wayne. His report shows that during the month there were handled here 1,517 full car loads of freight. September showed a little better business, there being 1,540 car loads handled, twenty-three more than in October. During the month of October, 1899, there were only 986 car loads of freight handled in the city, 551 car loads less than were handled during the month 1900. The percentage of demurrage continues to decrease in a satisfactory manner, which is evidence that Mr. Elliott is doing a good work for the railways and owners of cars.

SEMI-ANNUAL INSPECTION.

A party of Grand Rapids and Indiana officials are out on the southern end of the line today, making the semi-annual inspection of buildings and bridges. They travel upon the little steam inspection car which has been employed for that purpose for a number of years. In the party are E. H. Barnes, resident engineer; A. C. Phillips, master car builder, and A. H. Simpson, maintenance of way clerk.

Master Mechanic G. S. McKee, of the Wabash, has recovered from an attack of chills and fever and is again in his office, though feeling a trifle weak, the result of the sickness.

Brakeman John Miller and James Hamilton, who were sick, and Brakeman Joseph Hamilton and C. E. Myton, who had been attending to private affairs, reported for work on the Nickel Plate yesterday.

It is stated the Southern Indiana road will construct a seven-mile branch from Jasonville, Ind., to Jackson Hill, on the Evansville and Terre Haute. By this branch they will touch the richest coal fields in the state.

Yesterday Conductor George Harsh, of the Nickel Plate, had the misfortune to sprain one of his ankles. In consequence of the accident he is now off duty. Brakeman C. Bittner, also of the Nickel Plate, is taking a leave of absence for personal reasons.

There is said to be unimpeachable evidence that some of the east-and-west lines are again paying commissions on sales of tickets. The matter is being handled judiciously. It is thought by some that such a violation of the agreement will lead to breaking it down.

HIS ILLNESS A BRIEF ONE

CONDUCTOR CLOSTERMAN DIES FROM HEART TROUBLE.

Mrs. J. W. Coblenz, Mrs. Nora Foley and Mrs. Myrtle Johnson No
More—The Funerals.

Cornelius Closterman, a well known conductor on the Grand Rapids and Indiana railroad, died at 11 o'clock this morning at his home 118 Wallace street. Death was due to heart trouble and it followed a very brief illness. Mr. Closterman was in his usual health until 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon, when he was seized with an attack of heart derangement. Physicians were unable to afford relief and he sank steadily until the end came this morning.

Mr. Closterman's age was 53 years, 7 months and 23 days. For twenty-seven years he has been in the employ of the Grand Rapids and Indiana railroad, and seven years of that time as a conductor. He was popular with his fellow trainmen and was regarded as one of the most reliable men in the service. Mr. Closterman was a native of Holland, but came to America with his parents at the age of 7 years, locating in Kalamazoo, Mich. He removed to this city about three years ago.

Surviving are the widow and five children—Mrs. C. Ellenwood, of this city; Mrs. D. Glenn, of Kalamazoo; Miss Carrie Closterman and A. H. and L. W. Closterman. There are also eight grandchildren.

The remains will be shipped to Kalamazoo Saturday evening and the funeral services will be held in that city on Sunday.

COBLENZ.

Mrs. Coblenz was twice married, and surviving are the husband and five children—Mrs. Elmer Hall, of Youngstown, O.; Mrs. Effie Kennedy, of Decatur, Ill.; Mrs. I. N. Woods of this city; J. H. Jack, of Lafayette, and Alvin A. Jack, of Detroit.

Mrs. Coblenz was married March 7, 1838, to Lieut. E. G. Jack, of Sandusky, Ohio, who fell at the siege at Nashville during the civil war. The widow reared her family of children, training them in true Christian life, and after they were grown to manhood and womanhood she was united in marriage to Dr. Coblenz.

Coming to Fort Wayne some twelve years ago, Mrs. Coblenz identified herself with the First Presbyterian church and also became a member of the Ladies of the C. A. R.

The remains will be shipped to her former home at Sandusky, O., for interment.

FOLEY.

Mrs. Honora Foley, whose home was at 57 Prince street, died at 7 o'clock this morning at St. Joseph's hospital at the age of 60 years. Death was due to the infirmities of age. She was the widow of Timothy Foley, who is now in poor health and is a patient at St. Joseph's hospital.

The funeral services will be held Monday morning from St. Patrick's Catholic church.

JOHNSON.

Mrs. Myrtle Johnson, of 95 Franklin avenue, died at 2 o'clock this morning from septicaemia at the age of 26 years, 3 months and 28 days. WOOLLEY IN MICHIGAN.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 2.—John G. Woolley, prohibition candidate for president, and party entered Michigan today for their second campaign tour of the state. Mr. Woolley opened the day's campaigning with a speech at 8 o'clock from the rear platform of his car. A small audience heard him urge "that it is the duty of all enlightened electors to vote the prohibition ticket."

TO CLOSE THE CAMPAIGN.

The closing republican address of the campaign in this city will be delivered at Library hall Saturday evening by Col. Samuel H. Church, assistant secretary of the Pennsylvania company. The Railroad Men's club will escort the speaker, and it is expected that Supt. J. B. McKim will preside.

PATERSON FRIENDS INDICTED.

New York, Nov. 2.—It was said last night in Paterson, N. J., that the grand jury, acting upon the line laid down for their guidance by Judge Nixon, found a true bill of indictment for rape and homicide against Walter McAlister, Alex Campbell, William Death and George Kerr in connection with the death of Jennie Bosschoter, which occurred two weeks ago. Practically the whole day's session of the grand jury was taken up by the case.

The jury did not complete its work until after the court had risen, so there was no report of the finding of the jury to Judge Nixon.
